“These powerful heart-rending stories are filled with honesty, humor, hope and offer inspiration to parents, teachers, and anyone else who cares for children with special needs.”

Gerald G. Jompalsky, M.D.

Offering encouragement and insight to anyone whose child faces extraordinary challenges.

September 3, 2007 Deborah Rose of Garland, Texas wrote an original short story that has been published in the newly released Chicken Soup for the Soul: Children with Special Needs, one of the most anticipated book in the #1 NY Times best selling Chicken Soup for the Soul® series. This book contains truly remarkable, inspiring stories of support, understanding and triumph that tug at the heartstrings of anyone who reads them.

Deborah Rose tells the story of her son, Josh and how he was actually relieved to be diagnosed with a mental illness. Why? Because an illness can be treated and this gave him hope for himself and his future.

It was selected from thousands of other potential stories to be included in Chicken Soup for the Soul: Children with Special Needs because of its ability to touch hearts.

Chicken Soup for the Soul: Children with Special Needs is perfect for every parent, teacher, caregiver or professional who is participating in watching these children grow. This book should be shared with any person to remind them of the profound role they will forever play in their child's life.

Deborah Rose is a private investigator, spending her free time advocating for people with mental illness. She is heavily involved with the NAMI Texas as an educator and stigma buster. Deborah enjoys reading, writing, debating and e-baying. Full time writing is next on her agenda. Please email her at dcr.isgu.com.
